Privacy Policy

We at the St. Charles Park District are concerned about and are committed to protecting the privacy of you, our web site visitors. To that end, we have established this Privacy Policy as our commitment to maintain the privacy of your personal information in connection with all our online and Internet activities.

Use of Personal Information

We may gather information about you through our web site in three ways. First, we may collect and store some personally identifiable information (such as your name, address, telephone number, and e-mail address) that you provide to us through program registration, surveys, job applications, contests, service orders, or inquiries on this site. Second, we may collect and store information about your visit to this site in collective or aggregated data that does not identify you specifically. Third, we may collect and store information through the use of "cookies." The term "cookies" refers to lines of text that are transmitted to your web browser when you click on a site, providing a way for a server to recall a previous request or previous registration, or keep track of a transaction as it progresses, so that information does not have to be repeated. We use all of this information to help maintain accurate accounts, to provide and to change services, to provide accurate billing and shipping, to answer your inquiries, to market services and products, and to help make our web site useful to you.

Sharing Information

The information that we obtain from you is generally necessary for us to provide your services and to design new services for your future use. As a general rule, the St. Charles Park District will not sell, trade, or disclose to third parties personal information gathered online about you without your consent. The only exceptions to this rule are: (i) when we work with contracted businesses or instructors to develop a relationship with you or to perform services for you on our behalf or (ii) as may be required by subpoena, search warrant, or other legal process or in the case of imminent physical harm to you or others. In the case of (i) above, we require the relevant contracted businesses or instructors to adhere to our policies regarding the use and protection of your personal information.

E-mail Communication

We and our contracted businesses and instructors may use e-mail to communicate to our customers, respond to visitors' e-mails, or to inform you about events or new products. We will not send commercial solicitation via e-mail to you if you request that it not be sent.
